My Name is Simon Joyce and I have worked as Director of Golf at Branston Golf & Country Club for the last 4 years.

I learned to play golf from a young age and joined my first golf club when I was 9 years old. I had lessons, played in team matches and lived for the game through my teens, eventually turning professional when I was 17.

I became a PGA Pro coaching hundreds of children, trying to offer them a pathway taking them from casual lessons, to becoming full members at their local golf club.

I see safeguarding young people as everyone's responsibility, as Branston's nominated Welfare Officer, I take the role seriously. I have completed the necessary qualifications and in regular contact with the golf team to update and improve Branston's safeguarding wherever possible.
